Submission

Dhaka University Law Journal is interested in original contributions on contemporary or jurisprudentially important legal issues from scholars and professionals. This is a peer-reviewed journal, and papers and critical essays are published only after the author(s) has/have resubmitted the paper in compliance with reviewers' suggestions and recommendations, if there be any.

Two copies of manuscripts should be sent to the correspondence address, and a copy must also be submitted by email attachment to: <lawfac@bangla.net>. A covering-letter giving a short biographical note on the author(s) along with a declaration as to the originality of the work and the non-submission thereof to anywhere else must accompany the manuscripts.

Standard articles written on one side of good quality A4-sized papers, double spaced with wide margins, should be of 8,000-10,000 words including footnotes. The contributions must be in journal style outlined below.

References, footnotes and layout

The text must contain appropriate headings, subheadings and authoritative footnotes. The footnotes should be numbered consecutively and typed single spaced at the bottom of each relevant page. Citations conform generally to a Uniform System of Citation. Thus the style should be as follows:

Journal article: Single author

Baxi, Upendra. 1969. "Directive Principles and Sociology of Indian Law", Vol. 1, No. 3 Journal of the Indian Law Institute, pp. 245-72, at p. 70. [Here, the relevant reference is to p. 70 of the work which appears on pp. 245-72 of the journal].

Journal article: Multiple authors

Yoo, John C. and Saikrishna B. Prakash. 2003. "The Origins of Judicial Review", Vol. 70 University of Chicago Law Review, pp. 887-982, at pp. 889-90.

Book: Single author

Baxi, Upendra. 1985. Courage, Craft and Contention: The Indian Supreme Court in the Eighties. Bombay: N. M. Tripathi, at p. 101.

De Cruz, Peter. 2006. Comparative Law in a Changing World. 3rd edn. London and Sydney: Cavendish, chapter 6. [Here, a broad reference is made to chapter 6 of the book].

Book: Multiple authors

Menski, Werner, Ahmed R. Alam and Mehreen K. Raza. 2000. Public Interest Litigation in Pakistan. London and Karachi: Platinum and Pakistan Law House, at p. 102.

Book: Edited

Alauddin, M. and S. Hasan (eds.). 1999. Development, Governance and the Environment in South Asia: A Focus on Bangladesh. London: Macmillan.

Chapter in a book

Baxi, Upendra. 1987a. "Taking Suffering Seriously: Social Action Litigation in the Supreme Court of India", in Tiruchelvam, N. and R. Coomaraswamy (eds.): The Role of the Judiciary in Plural Societies. London: Francis Printer, pp. 32-59, at pp. 33-4. [Here, 1987a denotes the author's first work in the same year of 1987].

Book: Corporate author / institute

REDRESS. 2004. Torture in Bangladesh: 1971-2004. London: REDRESS.

Thesis

Ahmed, Naim. 1998. Litigating in the Name of the People: Stresses and Strains of the Development of Public Interest Litigation in Bangladesh. London: SOAS. (Unpublished PhD thesis).

Cases

A (I·C) v Secretary of State for the Home Department [2004] UKHL 56.

A. D. M., Jabalpur v Shivukant Shukla AIR 1976 SC 11207.

A. T. Mridha v The State (1973) 25 DLR (HCD) 335, 339 [Here, the case is reported on p. 335, and the quotation/reference drawn from is on p. 339].

Abbreviations should be written out in full when they appear first in the text or form the first word in a sentence. Leave out full stops in abbreviations made up of capitals as, for example, SEC, HCD, and JATI.

For the immediate past citation but with reference to a different page, ibid., at p. 34 / Ibid. at p. 34 should be used. For the same, immediate past reference, Id./id. should be used. For cross references use, for example: See above/below note 5, at p. 35; See further Baxi (1987a), above note 37; For details, see section/part 3/III below.
